- Focus on building positive outcomes
- Youth voice and engagement
- Long-term involvement/Developmentally appropriate
- Universal/Inclusive
- Community-based/Collaborative
Youth Voice & Engagement -
What does this mean to you? Why is it important?
Youth Engagement as Human Right

...the active and meaningful involvement of young people in all aspects of their own development and that of their communities, including their empowerment to contribute to decisions about their personal, family, social, economic, and political development (United Nations, 2007)

- Such engagement requires recognition of young people’s knowledge, perspectives, and experiences as valuable contributions to decision making at all levels (United Nations, 2007)

- It requires structures and systems put in place by adults to support them (Patton et al, 2016)
Youth Engagement

... can be defined as involving youth in responsible, challenging action that meets genuine needs, with the opportunity for planning and/or decision-making affecting others...

there is mutuality in teaching and learning (between youth and adults) and ... each group sees itself as a resource for the other and offers what it uniquely can provide.

You want to bring young people onto the hiring committee for youth workers. You want them to be part of the hiring process from beginning to end: reviewing the job description, recruitment materials, and applications, as well as interviewing and decision making.

You need to convince the administrators ...

Obstacle: Adultism

...the behaviors and attitudes which flow from negative stereotypes adults hold about youth.

John Bell, 1995

Think back to your teen years - Have you experienced adultism?
Manifestations of Adultism

- Dysfunctional Rescuing
- Blaming the Victim
- Avoidance of Contact
- Denial of Distinctiveness of Youth Culture
- Denial of the Political Significance of Adultism

Defeating Adultism

- Self-Reflection

- Check your biases: Harvard’s Implicit Test

- Deconstruct adultism
Edgar Schein’s Concept of Culture

Artifacts—Visible, tangible expressions (where people park, who gets what offices, doors open or closed, décor, dress code...)

Espoused Values—What the organization tells the world (and itself) it believes in and stands for.

Values in Use—What the organization follows and enacts in its actual practices and decision-making.

Basic Assumptions—The taken-for-granted “way we do things around here” that are not normally brought to consciousness, let alone questioned, and which guide and shape the way the organization organizes itself.
Poll: Youth-Adult Partnerships

Think about your own agency or program and respond to the following statements. Check off which feels right to you.

A. The idea of engaging youth in decision making excites me.
B. Youth have the right to be heard on matters impacting their lives.
C. The idea of engaging youth in decision making makes me nervous.
D. Our program/agency regularly solicits the input of young people.

Being Y-AP Savvy:
A Primer on Creating & Sustaining Youth-Adult Partnerships

Your Checklist for Quality Youth-Adult Partnership

How will your organization or school monitor the quality of your Y-AP? This checklist will help. Make time on a regular basis to discuss this checklist to identify the strengths and limitations in your partnership. You will be amazed at the successes your group will experience.

Relational Environment

All participants—younger and older—feel as though they matter.

- There is freedom to explore, to stumble and fall, and to learn by doing. But expectations are always high.

- The group explicitly strives to build a culture of respect and equality.

Opportunity Role Structures

Power hierarchies in decision making are flattened to the greatest extent possible.

- There are clear roles, large or small, for all participants.

- Responsibilities are assigned based on participants’ own choices, skills, and access to power and social connections.

Core Participant Experiences

- Adults are readily available to coach youth.

- Youth have the chance to teach adults and their peers.

- There is ample time for group reflection, decision making, and celebration of success.

Values and Principles

- Adults listen and respond to youth voice, and vice versa.

- Everybody is encouraged to participate, at a level consistent with their interest and time availability.

- All members understand how their own participation is contributing to the common purpose of the Y-AP.
