

Small Group Activities Checklist

Structured group activities encourage cooperative learning. Facing the same issues, youth solve problems together; they analyze, reflect, integrate, and generalize information received. Small group activities may also allow for observing and practicing skills in a non-judgmental, emotionally supportive environment.

Strategy	Well done	Needs Improvement	Comments
Explain the purpose of the activity.
Set definite limits.
Give clear instructions and examples.
Assign youth to groups.
Assign roles within groups.
Move among groups to check in with youth for understanding.
Encourage equitable participation.
Remind youth of remaining time.
Allow time to process activity.			